SECTION 2 – ACADEMIC DETAILS

Subject Rationale

This subject provides students with clinical practice experience. Each clinic student is expected to professionally manage clients as they attend to their clinical rounds. Supervisors expect clinic students to manage the consultation process and provide them with an accurate final diagnosis, prognosis and treatment for approval. By subject conclusion students will have developed further confidence in clinically managing clients.

Learning Outcomes

1. Consistently apply professional Chinese medicine knowledge and skill to questioning, clinical investigations (eg. tongue and pulse), TCM diagnosis, principles of treatment and prescription, prognosis to the application of identified treatment.
2. Consistently apply appropriate skills in the application of acupuncture, moxibustion and allied acupuncture techniques in consultation with client and specific to their requirements.

3. Consistently apply appropriate professional, ethical and legal requirements and/or considerations to clinic practice and management, ensuring adherence to record keeping and infection prevention and control guidelines when implementing strategies to ensure quality assurance and risk management in clinic practice.
4. Compare and contrast various acupuncture treatments sourced from research and classical texts appropriate to individual cases to improve overall treatment and efficacy and prognosis.
5. Develop a coherent argument for the utilisation of specific acupuncture treatments for individual cases.
6. Apply safe and effective acupuncture treatments.
7. Critically evaluate the outcome of each individualised treatment based on follow-up feedback from the client.
8. Communicate effectively with clients, their carers and families ensuring client involvement in structuring a treatment plan in managing their presenting health issue, identifying any risks and benefits of each option to allow informed decision making.
