SECTION 2 – ACADEMIC DETAILS

Subject Rationale

Tui Na Therapeutics 1 introduces the basic concepts and applications necessary to apply Chinese remedial massage (Tui na). Students will initially explore the principles and theory related to Tui na practice in preparation to developing skill in the application of the twenty-four core Tui na techniques. By subject conclusion students will be making critical judgements with relation to which combination of the twenty-four Tui na techniques are required in the management of a range of general massage and basic musculoskeletal injuries.

Learning Outcomes

1. Integrate and explain how Chinese medicine theory and principles intersect with Tui na specific theories and principles.
2. Discuss and explain all cautions and contraindications associated with the general practice Tui na and its treatment techniques.
3. Identify, define and consistently apply the twenty-four core Tui na techniques that can be used in the concurrent management of specific Chinese medicine diagnoses.
4. Outline a basic Tui na sequence of techniques, that when applied align with a specific Chinese medicine diagnosis made as part of an acupuncture treatment.
5. Define, interpret and continuously demonstrate appropriate occupational health and safety .
6. Define, interpret and continuously demonstrate cultural sensitivity and ethical considerations.
