SECTION 2 – ACADEMIC DETAILS

Subject Rationale

This subject provides students with the tools to manage and operate a clinical medicine practice by exploring business planning, marketing and finance as well as gaining an understanding of legal and regulatory issues. It also enables students to reflect upon their professional ethical responsibilities in relation to codes of conduct and / or ethical codes within their respective professional associations’ membership protocols. Students will also learn how to be prepared for starting their own clinical practice and get familiar with the processes they need to follow for setting up their practice in complementary medicine.
Learning Outcomes

1. Generate and evaluate clinic policies and procedures with reference to relevant legislative requirements.
2. Apply appropriate legal and ethical responses to complementary medicine practice.
3. Apply practical skills to advertise, communicate, market and set up a clinical health practice.
4. Develop skills to prepare personal business marketing material in correlation with the identified target population and service provision as a complementary medicine practitioner.
5. Develop a means of self-support and supervision within professional practice.
