SECTION 2 – ACADEMIC DETAILS

Subject Rationale

This subject further develops the interpersonal skills required to establish and maintain an effective helping relationship with a client. The focus is upon enhancing and further developing effective communication skills and integrating them into effective practice. A further focus will be on the relevance and application of solution focused therapy, motivational interviewing, cognitive behavioural therapy, positive psychology, and acceptance commitment therapy in Complementary Medicine. This subject also addresses issues pertaining to crisis intervention as well as equipping students with resources to manage and support clients who present with diverse and complex needs. Self-care for the practitioner is an intrinsic component of this subject. Students will also gain a rudimentary understanding of the mechanics, maintenance and ethics of behaviour change in the field of Complementary Medicine.

Learning Outcomes

1. Understand and demonstrate the integrated use of interpersonal skills as part of effective therapeutic communication.
2. Demonstrate an understanding of motivational interviewing and its application in Complementary Medicine.
3. Understand the basic helping skills required using a range of solution focused therapy, cognitive behavioural therapy, acceptance and commitment therapy, and positive psychology interventions relevant to different helping scenarios
4. Demonstrate an understanding of crisis intervention when working with clients with complex needs.
